

IB DP different from other curriculums?

What sets it apart is its depth of study and critical thinking, along with its range of subjects and value of co-curricular activities

IB DP requires students to:

• learn deeply and compassionately

✓ learn through and across disciplines

○ develop research skills proven to help them in higher education and beyond

science

• An IB subject may be an arts subject: music, theatre or visual arts. Alternatively, students can select an additional language, humanities or science subject.

These six subjects represent the breadth of the diploma.

What do the IBDP subject 'levels' refer to?

3 SUBJECTS are studied at a STANDARD LEVEL

3 SUBJECTS are studied at a HIGHER LEVEL

The three higher level subjects are usually the student's strongest or favourite subjects

Higher level subjects allow students to explore standard level concepts at greater depth as well as additional content.

What are the additional core components of the IBDP?

In addition to the six IB Diploma Programme subjects, all students must complete three core components

1 Theory of Knowledge

2 Extended Essay

3 Creativity, Activity, Service

What is the Extended Essay (EE)?

The Extended Essay is a 4,000 word research essay on a subject of the student's choice. Each student is assigned a subject teacher/mentor to guide students through the process of discussing expert knowledge. Many students include learning from their Extended Essay as part of the university application process
